Matrix Calendar

The weekly outlook was:

09/07/25 -- Start of the week looks bearish then bullish latter in the week.

09/07/25 -- Wednesday and/or Thursday should close higher.

09/08/25 -- NOAA forecast decreased the bearish energy at the beginning of the week. The worst was on Sunday. So the decrease energy on Monday saw the markets rally. This is why I don't forecast Monday's/

09/10/25 -- Thursday is the most bullish day of the week.

09/11/25 -- DJIA up 616 on the most bullish day of the week according to the Matrix Heat Map.

Matrix Heat Map

The Matrix Heat Map, a simplified version of the Matrix, applies adjusted weightings to its values.

Tuesday was the most bearish day of the week, but only slightly. The indices closed mixed. The following day Wednesday also saw a mixed close among the stock indices. Thursday was very bullish. We bought some SPY Call options which hit the profit target of 100%. Friday was also bullish but notice it was less bullish than Thursday. I called for a lower close which we did see in all the indices except for the QQQ.

Matrix Summary

We exclude Monday from our analysis.

The Martix Summary was right only 2 out of 4 days when forecasting a higher or lower close than the day before.

On the candlestick chart, we look at the higher or lower close from the open. Here the chart was right 3 out of 4 times.

SPY Indicators

The number of reversal signals during the week totaled 6. There was nothing you could expect from all these reversals in one week. No forecast was posted.
